

Social Media Community Guidelines

In a nutshell

#worthliving: The Orange Project is designed to be an uplifting and safe place for expression and discussion related to suicide prevention. We encourage conversations, so help us create this community by sharing positive messages.

Any inappropriate, negative, degrading, or shaming comments will be deleted and repeat offenders will be blocked. In short, be cool and play nice.

Let us explain

Thank you for working with us to create an inviting environment for the #worthliving: The Orange Project community. The purpose of this platform is to provide support and create meaningful connections for people impacted by suicide and maybe even help save a life.

- By sharing content on the #worthliving: The Orange Project platform, we reserve the right to remove or repost content
- Follow the law. We have a zero tolerance policy when it comes to sharing content that promotes suicide, bullying, or threatening to post hateful messages
- Respect everyone and maintain a supportive environment. #worthliving: The Orange Project is engaging with many personal issues, and we encourage everyone to share their stories. You may find content you don't like, but doesn't violate the community guidelines. If that happens, please be respectful of others' opinions. Also, NEVER reveal any personal or private information about others when posting
- Foul language is a no-go. Posts containing profane or offensive language will be removed
- Third-party fundraising is not approved. At this time, we cannot vet external fundraisers as we cannot verify whether funds collected will go toward stated cause
- Please do not solicit or advertise products or services. Refrain from promoting products or services on our page, especially if they refer to non-FDA approved treatments
- We may need to change these rules from time to time and reserve the right to do so. Please check back here to see the latest guidelines

Thank you for reading our community guidelines. Please note that we reserve the right to block individuals who repeatedly violate these community guidelines or who continually foster a negative and unproductive environment for our followers.
